TR042 Film – A new four year degree programme that allows students the opportunity to immerse themselves in theories and cultures of film. Core courses include the history of Hollywood filmmaking, introduction to non-Western cinemas, aspects of European cinemas, Irish cinema and theories of the digital image. Further information on the course can be found at

<https://www.tcd.ie/courses/undergraduate/az/course.php?id=DUBDM-FILM-1F09>

TR043 History of Art and Architecture – A new four year degree programme which will appeal to those interested in museums, galleries, architectural heritage, and visual culture. Course modules include the history of painting, sculpture, and architecture from antiquity to modern times. Further information on the course can be found at <https://www.tcd.ie/courses/undergraduate/az/course.php?id=DUBHH-HAAR-1F09>

Changes to existing Courses

TR024 European Studies – Modern Irish has been added to the range of languages available to study in European Studies. It is not available at beginner's level; a grade H4 in Irish is required.

TR040 Middle Eastern and European Languages and Culture

Students take classes in the following subjects: one European language (French, German, Italian, Russian, Polish and Spanish)

Course requirement (previously a H3 in one of the languages above) has been changed to H4 in a language other than English or Irish. Note however that beginners French is not available and students need to have a H3 in French if they wish to take French.
